The Concept of Lifelong Learning and Lifelong Education in Japan

Meaning of lifelong education

In response to the rapidly-changing society, individuals today, according to spontaneous intention, are seeking appropriate modern learning opportunities for self-improvement and self-development. Because individuals learn throughout their lives, choosing appropriate learning measures and methods in response to their needs, it is evident that the concept of lifelong learning currently exists.

The idea behind the promotion of lifelong education, therefore, is that a wide variety of educational functions in society shall be prepared and improved, and their co-relations shall be considered. In other words, the concept behind lifelong education is that the whole educational system is structured to assist individuals' cumulative learning throughout life, in order that individuals might live a more meaningful life.

The Definition of Social Education

Social Education Law

Article 2: In this law, "Social Education" implies systematic educational activities (including physical education and recreation) primarily for out-of-school youth and adults, excluding such educational activities as are conducted in schools as part of the curriculum, in accordance with the School Education Law (Law No.26 of 1947).

Social Education Law (Law No. 207, 1949)

21

The Characteristics of Japanese Lifelong Learning

(... in the development of lifelong learning we should emphasize the following points:)

- 1) Lifelong learning should be based on the individuals' spontaneous willingness to pursue quality in life and vocational ability, as well as to enrich the self.
- 2) Lifelong learning should continue throughout life, and should include such measures and contents as are seen fit by the individual.
- 3) Lifelong learning encompasses not only organized intentional learning opportunities in school and society, but also such activities as participation in sports, cultural events, recreational programs, volunteer activities, etc.
